INTERPOL International Fugitive Round-Up and Arrest (INFRA-RED)

John GRIFFIN

LOCATION SOUGHT BY IRELAND TO ASSIST IN INVESTIGATION

BELIEVED TO BE IN THE UNITED KINGDOM, GERMANY, SPAIN or NETHERLANDS

GRIFFIN 2005

Case details: GRIFFIN is suspected of murdering a young woman in Galway, Ireland in April 2005.

The body of the 23-year-old victim was discovered in the burned-out caravan where she had been living.

It is suspected that GRIFFIN set fire to the caravan after breaking in and assaulting the woman.

In the days following the attack, GRIFFIN allegedly travelled to a nearby island where he was seen on a cliff top. Items of GRIFFIN's clothing were later found at the location, however police believe that GRIFFIN may have attempted to fake his own death and is now hiding from authorities.

In 2005 GRIFFIN is known to have travelled from London to Germany. His current location is not known.
